

Join us on Thursday, March 26 @ 11:15 AM for the 30th annual orchid exhibition, sponsored by the Smithsonian Gardens and the U.S. Botanic Garden.

The exhibit is at the African American History Museum, located at 1400 Constitution Avenue NW, and admission is free.

More than a Flower: “The Connective Power of Orchids” Featuring a changing display of live orchid specimens, exploring the many ways orchids connect individuals, communities and nature, with hundreds of live orchids, with stunning displays, intriguing storytelling and engaging learning opportunities.

- We will walk around the Tidal Basin for the Cherry blossoms. They will be at almost Peak bloom.
- Then lunch at L’Enfant Plaza food court.

The museum is a short walk (2 blocks, 8 minutes) from the Smithsonian Blue/Orange/Silver Lines metro station.
